The "Garage" Museum of contemporary art.

My favourite place in Moscow is the "Garage" museum of contemporary art. This museum is located in Gorky Park, in the main street. It's perfect, because after a tour of the museum you can stroll through the park and enjoy the amazing view of the city. By the way, this part is considered the most famous in Moscow.

Personally, I'm interested in cultural change and I like all kinds of art in general. "Garage" for me is an affordable place to inspire and explore new works by talented artists from different countries. Two years ago I visited the museum for an exhibition by Peter Bruegel. It was impressive and unforgettable.

I want to say, that if you love art and want to develop yourself in this area, then this museum is worth your time. The first reason is that you can get acquainted with unusual paintings of different impressionists and to obtain additional information about the unknown types of art. The second reason is that you can meet people who will help you to find the most interesting works and talk to you about them.

In my opinion, "The Garage" Museum is an unusual
